

Christine Doyle, M.D.
Assistant Secretary

Christine Doyle received her medical training at Creighton University's School of Medicine, and then began as a surgical resident at UCSF and University of Nevada before commencing her anesthesiology training at Stanford University. She completed her fellowship in critical care at Stanford as well.

She currently sits on the ASA's Critical Care Medicine, Electronic Media and Information Technology (EMIT) and Trauma & Emergency Preparedness (COTEP) committees, and is an alternate delegate from the California Society of Anesthesiologists to the ASA. She is currently the Assistant Secretary of the CSA, having previously served as District 4 Director (representing San Mateo through Monterey), District 4 Delegate and District 15 Director (representing the residents) .

As a partner and Vice-President of Coast Anesthesia Medical Group, she provides anesthetics at one in-patient and three outpatient facilities, in addition to critical care consultation in an semi-closed ICU model. She is the current Chair of the Department of Anesthesiology at O'Connor Hospital.
